Completed: Home page, Blog page, Engagement page

- I used FontAwesome (<https://fontawesome.com/>) icons for showing icons in the website.
- I used jQuery & OwlCarousel (<https://owlcarousel2.github.io/OwlCarousel2/>) for Add Sliders in Home pages.
- In Full website I use external css(style.css) file for the webpages.

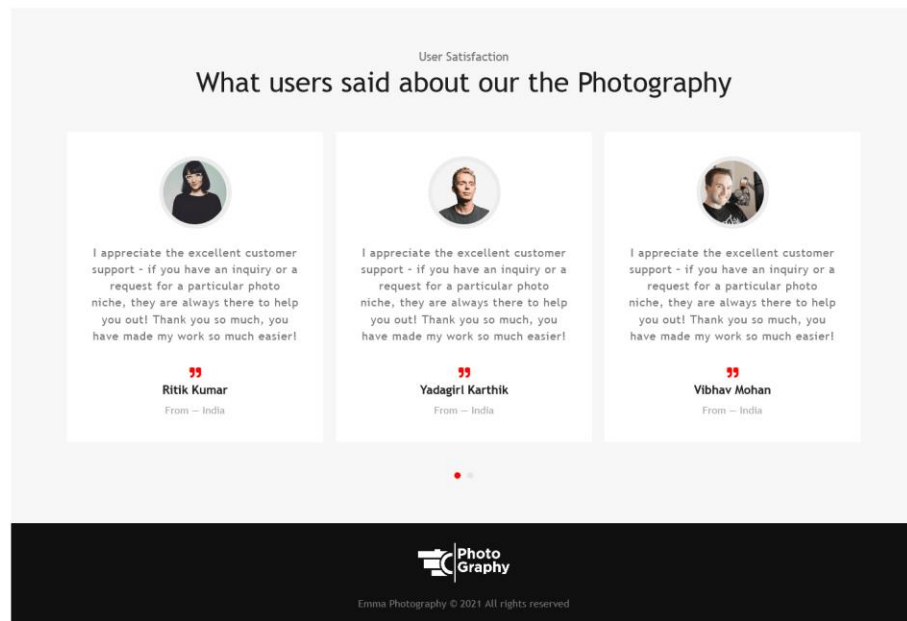

For Blog & Engagement page layout I used css Flexbox(display:flex). I used keyframes for animated some part of the webpages. I used css transform for Blog page image hover & css opacity in Engagement Page image hover. So that on hover images looks pretty good. In the html tag I use different class for different section so that I can easily write css for each section. In the css file I mostly used margin, padding, border, font-size, transform, transition, font-weight, border-radius, color, background etc.

This below pages is the portfolio of wedding and family for photographer's website. I tried making this page elegant and a bit simple as this page is only of photos so simplicity will make it more graceful. I used 'div' and 'class' for every part of arrangement. I used different class for every row of photos to make it in proper alignment and also used margin, padding and other few attributes of image. Also used different fonts and alignment using div , class , margin and padding.

I didn't make these image clickable as several links had to made but I made it to touch blur effect. I was able to achieve my idea the way I thought the site would appear it looks exact same. Both Wedding and Family portfolio pages were made by me.
